WELCOME

It's that time of year again folks, the shopping centres are filled with the smell of delicious mince pies, glistening tinsel hung and the sound of carols filling the air, it's that all too timely reminder that Christmas is only a stone throw away.

We know that the last 18 months have been a rollercoaster of change and with many teams separated by borders many are asking... "How do I keep the festive spirit alive within my team?"

While you may not be in the same location or restrictions may prevent you from travelling, there is no reason you can't still celebrate and spread Christmas cheer which is why we have come up with 12 days of festive team culture... effective for both remote and office teams!

HAPPY

Holidays

1 Christmas Trivia

It's Christmas time and it's time to celebrate the festive season with a little friendly competition. Do you have a fountain of festive themed knowledge bottled up inside you that is just bursting to get out? Well, it's time your time to shine!

Put your brain to the test and host an in person or online trivia...."Christmas Edition!"

2 Decorate the Office

Time to get creative! Send a calendar appointment to all staff for a half hour block (preferable when the dreaded 3.30itis hits) and request every individual bring a small box of festive themed decorations... keep the rest a surprise.

On the day set the clock for 30 minutes and set the whole team to work to bring some Christmas cheer to their workspace.

Working remotely? Why not have team members decorate thier home office.

3 Spread the Cheer

Assign each team member a Christmas buddy. Give them the challenge to create a handmade Christmas card and send it in the post to their buddy (or drop it on their desk).

4 Give Back this Christmas

Select a charity and create a donation basket, asking the whole team to donate something of their choice that they think will help those in need.

Give the team a brief on the chosen charity so the most appropriate items are donated.

Working remotely? Designate a central COVID safe drop off point and allow extra time.

The Countdown is on!

Create an office Christmas advent calendar, complete with lollies, snacks or goodies that the team can share each day! YUM!

Working remotely? why not try a virtual calendar. This doesn't have to break the bank either... think coffee vouchers or animated christmas cards.

Holiday Two Truths and a Lie

Ask employees to think about the worst Christmas gifts they ever received. Each team member comes up with two that are true and one that is a lie. One by one team members will share their responses, while the other participants try to figure out which ones are real and which ones aren't.

Great for online or in person.

7 Ugly Christmas Sweater

Get everyone in the spirit and invite all team members to wear a classic ugly Christmas sweater to the next meeting.

8 Taste of Christmas

Cook a Christmas feast as a team either in person or have a cooking session together via zoom, before sitting down to enjoy together.

Encourage team members to share their own Christmas recipes for a personal touch!

Make it as simple or as extravagant as you like.

Christmas Guess Who?

Each team member will need to send in a photo of them as a child at Christmas for their coworkers to guess who the child in the photo is.

Post them on your office notice board or share them in zoom.

Christmas Cracker Off

Ask team members to prepare their best Christmas themed jokes to try and have their colleagues rolling on the floor in laughter!

Each team member presents a new joke at each weekly meeting to keep the atmosphere festive.

Kris Kringle

There is a certain joy that comes with giving back... and Kris Kringle is no different! Want to make it interesting? Add a steal option!

Pull names out of a hat (virtually or in person) and set a budget. Gifts can be sent or put under the office Christmas tree to enjoy.
